Instructions for authors

Please read the Instructions for Authors (<https://journal.r-project.org/share/author-guide.pdf>), which explains how to prepare an article for submission to The R Journal.

Download the zip archive of template files (<https://journal.r-project.org/share/RJtemplate.zip>) into a directory. It contains the following files providing the mandatory template for preparing an article for submission to the R Journal:

- (1) LaTeX style file: RJournal.sty.
- (2) fake Master LaTeX file: RJwrapper.tex.
- (3) article template files: RJtemplate.tex, Rlogo-5.png and RJreferences.bib.
- (4) example typeset template file: RJwrapper_orig.pdf.

Submissions not using this template will be rejected without consideration. Do check that you are using at least version 0.13 of the LaTeX style file: RJournal.sty; the current version is contained in the zip archive of template files.

Submit online

To submit a new article to the R journal, please complete the fields below. Note that journal policy changed in early 2017, and submissions of the "add-on packages" type will henceforth be subject to more rigorous scrutiny. If you are making a submission of this type, you should prepare a letter explaining how you meet our stronger requirements described prominently at the beginning of this website and in our Instructions for Authors.

If you have problems, first try to reduce the size of your submission zipfile as much as possible. If this does not help, please contact the Editor-in-Chief at <r-journal@r-project.org>.

Submission checklist *

- ☒ I have read the instructions for authors, and include a motivating letter if my submission is of the "add-on packages" type
- ☒ I am using the latest version of the style file
- ☒ My bibliography is stored in a separate bibtex (filename.bib) file
- ☒ My article is called filename.tex, my graphics files are PDF and/or PNG, my reproduction script is called filename.R, and I have updated RJwrapper.tex
- ☒ I acknowledge that if accepted my article will be published with CC-BY license
- ☒ The manuscript has not been published in a peer reviewed journal, and is not currently under review for another journal
- ☒ All authors agree to submission of the article to the R Journal

Please list the paths to any other supplementary files inside the zip (R scripts, data, etc.). Each file path should be separated by commas. This list will be used to construct the supplementary zip file for your article if it is accepted for publication.

Excluding obvious conflicts, such as same institution, are there any other potential conflicts of interest we should be aware of?

No
